

Micro Greens

Bull's Blood

Bull's blood is a deep purple and red color that goes particularly well with salads.

Popcorn Shoots

Their appearance is similar to a bright yellow blade of grass. These shoots come from a single sweet corn kernel with a flavor reminiscent of wheatgrass. They are grown in the dark to prevent them from photosynthesizing.

Micro Arugula

Intense and spicy flavor yet delicate in appearance.

Intensity

Exceptional combination of 15-20 herbs and greens. Flavors of herbs, veggies, citrus, licorice, and spicy greens. Tasty and colorful. An array of several colors, shapes, textures, flavors and aromas makes this mix truly special.

Micro Basil

Tiny sweet basil leaves. The perfect garnish for summer tomato salads, desserts and hand crafted beverages.

Asian Mix

Fresh spicy flavors of spinach, tatsoi, mizuna, red mustard and pak choy. Varied shapes and colors.

Micro Cilantro

Tiny leaves but big in fresh, clean cilantro flavor.

Today's chefs think about the flavor, color, texture, and appearance of each garnish they use, and that is the reason why micro greens are the perfect choice. Edible Flowers

Nasturtiums

With their vibrant colors, textures, scents and flavors, these dazzling beauties are gaining in popularity as a highly creative culinary ingredient. Used in anything from salads and soups, to main entrees and desserts.

Pansies

Mild semi-sweet wintergreen flavor. Pansy blossoms are large and flat, perfect for use as a garnish whole or individual petals. These blossoms are sold as mixed color blends.

Chive Blossoms

Chives flowers are delicious in green salads, potato and pasta salads and dips. Remove the central stem from the flower cluster to release the separate florets.

Lavender Flower

Sweet, floral flavor, with lemon and citrus notes. Flowers look beautiful and taste good too in a glass of champagne, with chocolate cake, or as a garnish for sorbets or ice creams. Adds a mysterious scent to custards, flans or sorbets.

Mixed Flowers

A blend of colors, textures and flavors. After falling out of fashion for many years, cooking and garnishing with flowers is back in vogue once again.

FireStix

Flame-like blossoms. Harvested from the amaranth plant. FireStix are gleaned from the most vibrant portion of the plant.
